

Rescuers Find Hiker Dead In Arizona Storm

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth, fighting frost-bite and a raging snowstorm, brought rescuers to his hiking companion Monday only to find him frozen to death in Arizona's rugged northland.

Young Michael McBride was hospitalized with frostbitten feet after his futile attempt to save Abram William Clark, 51, of Bell Gardens, Calif.

A search was to begin today for Clark's wife, Nellie, 54, and the youth's father, George McBride of Jerome, Ariz. Temperatures were expected to drop to near zero in the canyon country where they were last seen.

Trucked Stalled

The four had been packing supplies into rugged Tule Canyon south of Williams where Clark planned to return on a rock-hunting expedition in the spring.

McBride told his rescuers that Mrs. Clark decided she couldn't hike out of the canyon to where they had parked their truck. She and the elder McBride headed for a ranch 16 miles down the canyon.

Clark and the boy hiked back up the canyon to the truck. The vehicle stalled in the snow, however, as the two attempted to drive toward a rendezvous with the others at the ranch.

The youth and Clark walked about 10 miles and tried to build a fire but the intensity of the snowstorm was increasing and they failed.

McBride said he and Clark then fell asleep.

"I dreamed my feet were being amputated," said the boy. "Then I woke up."

He set out for help when he couldn't awake Clark, who he said was still breathing.

Snowfall Rare

Forest rangers found the youth in a blinding snowstorm which left 14 inches in the area. The boy led them to Clark, who was dead.

Cocconino County sheriff's deputies said the elder McBride and Mrs. Clark never reached the ranch.

The storm left snow caps on the historic Superstition Mountains 40 miles east of the sprawling desert city of Phoenix. Snow is rarely seen on the Superstitions, where scaring summer days and heat exhaustion are more common.

Temperatures were expected to dip to 10 below at some northern Arizona points. All major highways in Arizona and New Mexico were reported open, but driving was extremely hazardous.

Water Shortage Worries Spain

MADRID (AP) — Spain's sunshine — one of the most attractive features for the increasing flow of tourists — is beginning to worry the Spaniards.

A long drought has reduced the level of water reservoirs 50 per cent. Authorities in some areas are contemplating water rationing.

Madrid, which consumes 700,000 cubic meters a day, has a 40-day supply. A number of places report no rain in more than five months.

DEAD LOONS by the thousands litter the shoreline of Green Bay and northern Lake Michigan. Charles Bessay of Misery Bay examines one of the loons as he did in satisfying himself that they died after eating the shad of alewives, small fishes which have sharp, indigestible bones. (Daily Press Photo)

Loons Die From Eating Shad, Says Oldtimer

By CLINT DUNATHAN

Charley Bessay of Misery Bay, who as boy and man has lived for 84 years along the shores of Green Bay, is a keen observer of nature who says he "always tries to find out the answers."

He has come up with an answer to the question of what is causing the deaths of thousands of loons, large migratory fish-eating water birds on Lake Michigan. Bodies of the birds were found along the shores of bay and lake beginning about a month ago and more continue to wash up each day.

"I think they are being killed from eating the shad or alewives," said Bessay, who at 84 is bright-eyed and with a lively curiosity about the workings of nature. "The shad has a bone along its belly that is as sharp as a razor and will kill anything that eats it. Even when the shad is ground up, like for minck food, only a little bit of it can be fed."

Without Value

The shad, which is also called alewife, is a small fish that — like the lamprey and some other pests — came to the Great Lakes from the ocean. They are about six inches long, about as flat as a folded piece of letter paper, and about as commercially valueless as the lamprey.

The shad have multiplied tremendously in the Great Lakes. Fishermen's nets are fouled with them. They have about as much meat on them as a piece of blotting paper.

"That sharp bone in the shad gets into the loon's body and cuts his insides all to pieces," said Bessay. "I examined the dead loons. I opened them up and looked at their stomachs and throats. They were all the same — all cut up and bleeding inside."

Bessay's opinions are received with respect by the Conservation Department, whose biologists are now examining the loons in an effort to solve the mystery. They report that bodies of the dead loons contain type E Botulism. There is the inference that the botulism may have come from eating fish and caused the loon's death.

Bessay insists it's the shad that is dealing death to the loons. "The loons fly in here from the north and they have to eat. There is more shad than other fish and so they catch and eat the shad. That's why there's so many bodies along the shores up here and not so many farther south. The loons died before they can get that far."

Born in Livonia, Mich., Bessay was a boy of two when he moved with his parents to Washington Island back in 1882. The family lived there for a time and then moved to Jacksonport, Door County fishing village, and then Charley came to Cedar River.

For the past 53 years he has lived along the bay shore south of Escanaba, for eight years at Cedar River, and for the past 45 years at Misery Bay. He has fished commercially, hunted, trapped, and operated a boat livery for many years until his retirement a few years ago.

Water Levels

"I learned about birds and animals and fish the hard way — by experience," says Charley. "When you are trying to catch fish or game you have to know about them to do it — and you have to be smart to trap a coyote. They used to say that if a coyote had one leg left to get into a trap, Charley Bessay could catch him."

The good old days of fishing are no more, he agrees. "When Please Turn To Page 6, Col. 7

Democrats May Rush Program For Legislature

LANSING (AP) — A young Democratic lawmaker is urging his party to upstage Gov. George Romney in the legislative show starting next January.

Rep. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, proposed today that the Democratic caucus in the House and Senate present their legislative programs before Romney has a chance to present his.

He made his proposal in letters mailed Monday to Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency; Rep. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit; House minority leader, and U.S. Rep. Neil Staeber, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor.

Some Clashes Expected

"It is vitally important that we do not let the governor upstate us," Traxler said. "In many respects, I'm sure his program will agree with ours. It would be bad if he an-

No Word Given On Fate Of U.S. Medic In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The fate of American missionary Paul Carlson, threatened with execution by Congolese rebels, remained a mystery today. The United States warned insurgent leaders they would be held to account if they harmed Carlson.

The rebel radio announced Monday that the 36-year-old medical missionary from Rolling Hills, Calif., had been sentenced to death as a military spy and would be executed in Stanleyville at noon. It has broadcast nothing further on his fate.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said if Carlson were executed, it would be "an outrageous violation of international law and of accepted standards of humanitarian conduct."

Rusk appealed to Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya to use his influence as chairman of an African committee seeking to end the Congo civil war to try to save Carlson's life.

Rusk said rebel charges that Carlson was a U.S. Army major on a spy mission were "patently false."

He said the United States holds insurgent leaders "directly responsible for the safety of Dr. Carlson and of all other Americans in areas under rebel control."

In Chicago, Dr. Arden Almquist, executive secretary of Covenant World Missions in which Carlson served, said the captive missionary "definitely is not a spy."

Decision Near On Far Eastern Policy Of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Secretary of State William Bundy expects a decision on U.S. Far Eastern policy to be made within the next few weeks.

Bundy, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs, said Monday that while the basic situation in Southeast Asia has not changed as a result of the recent U.S. election, one thing has changed: the mandate given President Johnson.

Bundy spoke to a meeting of the Women's National Democratic Club.

Pointing to principles affirmed by Johnson for the Far East, Bundy mentioned the basic U.S. aim of peace and the struggle for it. "There can be no doubt of our determination to see it through," he said.

Bundy said the United States would continue to play a major role in the Far East.

Leader Of GOP In House Says 1936 Was Worse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles A. Halleck sat in his quiet Capitol office, surveyed the election results and said, "The '36 debacle was worse than this."

The House Republican leader from Indiana told a news conference: "I can't read into the results any great mandate to change the course of the country."

As for the immediate, specific consequences, he said, "If you ask me I guess Medicare will go through." He referred to medical care for the elderly under Social Security which has been stuck in a House committee despite President Johnson's prodding.

He also said Johnson could probably get through his proposal to aid the Appalachia area — a key part of his antipoverty program.

Kind Words For Burch

Should Barry Goldwater bow out of the national Republican picture after his defeat in the presidential race?

"Adlai Stevenson didn't bow out, did he?" said Halleck. "And he got licked pretty bad."

Halleck had kind words for Republican National Chairman Dean Burch and said any changes in the Republican National Committee were its own responsibilities — not his.

Asked to comment on rumbles of discontent in the party with his own House leadership, Halleck said, "No one has said anything antagonistic to me." He said he had read such things in newspapers and "from time to LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "Just this much more and he would have cleared that ridge," a sheriff's deputy said Monday, holding his hands about two feet apart.

He was standing in hard-packed snow 50 yards from the ridge called Arden Dome that stopped a Bonanza Airlines F27 turboprop Sunday night. All 29 aboard died in the crash.

Grenade Kills 3 In Trenton, N.J.

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An exploding hand grenade killed three people in front of a tavern early today.

Police identified the dead as Patrolman John J. Clowar, 29; John Christie Jr., 37, the holder of the grenade, and a bystander, Harold E. Lesath, 23, all of Trenton.

A second policeman, Roland Czup, 27, was struck by metal fragments in the arm and leg but managed to radio for help.

Police were called to the Oak Cafe at 1 a.m. by the manager, who said a man with a bomb was outside.

Police said Christie was awaiting trial for shooting a special officer in a bar last February.

They said they were questioning Christie outside the tavern when he exploded the grenade in his pocket.

At least five were injured, police reported.

Viet Nam War Combat Losses Of U.S. Now 225

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Another U.S. enlisted man has been killed in South Viet Nam, raising the total of Americans killed in combat to 225 since 1961.

A U.S. spokesman said four Vietnamese also were killed in the clash Monday with a Viet Cong unit 15 miles east of Saigon.

All Bodies Removed

Pilot Hank Fitzpatrick, 41, radioed McCarran tower at 8:25 p.m., two minutes before the plane vanished from a radar-scope during a heavy snowfall.

The only persons who knew what happened in that two minutes are dead.

A swarm of sheriff's deputies and volunteers removed all the bodies from the 4,200-foot high ridge on the western flank of Las Vegas Valley with the aid of helicopters from nearby Nellis Air Force Base.

The plane did not burn. It broke apart and its pieces javelined northward across the top of the dome. Bodies were thrown in every direction.

Conversation at the temporary camp, 500 feet below the dome was often silenced with blaring messages over search radios.

"We need something to pry a body loose from the wreckage. Send up a crow bar or something on the next helicopter."

Flight Recorder Found

By sunset, only a sheriff's rear guard remained at the site to preserve the scene for Civil Aeronautics Board investigators.

Edward Slattery of the Washington CAB office said, "It's too soon to tell what happened. We don't know yet if we are going to reconstruct the wreckage. It would be an extremely difficult job."

His office has impounded the plane's flight recorder. Slattery and two dozen other CAB and FBI officials met Monday night in Las Vegas.

Only 10 bodies had been identified early today.

MOTHER OF 4 GONE

HOLLAND (AP) — A sorrowing father told Monday night of his wife's holiday trip that ended in her death in the Bonanza Air Lines plane crash in Nevada.

Mrs. Joan Buikema, 28, mother of four children, was among the 29 who died in the Sunday night mountain-top crash.

Her husband, Roger, 33, said she had been on a family visit in the Southwest, intending to see her parents in Las Vegas.

"Now, suddenly, she's gone," Buikema said.

The Buikema children are Roger Paul, 9; Claudia Anne, 6; Jack Robert, 3, and Carl Lewis, 10 months.

"I've told the oldest two. They don't know quite what to make of it," Buikema said. "The other two will never know... or I may tell them when they're older."

Last-Ditch Try Made To Avert Railway Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal mediators hope to arrange for new bargaining sessions between union and railroad officials in a last-ditch effort to avert a strike set for Monday which could halt service on most of the nation's carriers.

Six shop craft unions, involved in a wage dispute with the railroads for nearly 18 months, Monday called the strike of their 140,000 members for 6 a.m. local time. A spokesman for the unions said the walkout would halt service on the 187 railroads and terminal switching companies which handle more than 90 per cent of the nation's rail traffic.

The spokesman, Michael Fox, president of the AFL-CIO Railway Employees Department, said that consideration would be given any "fair and equitable" settlement offer from the railroads. He also said serious consideration would be given any request from the White House.

There was no immediate word from the White House but the shop unions have rejected as inadequate a presidential emergency board's recommended increase of 27 cents an hour over a three-year period.

Francis O'Neill of the National Mediation Board came to Chicago from Washington and met separately with carrier and union officers Monday. He said he would try to set up bargaining sessions between union and rail officials.

J. E. Wolfe, spokesman for the railroads, said the carriers will not go beyond the recommendations made Oct. 20 by the emergency board. He said to grant higher increases would be unfair to other rail unions which he said have or are about to agree to the board's formula.

Fox said the six unions, among 11 non-operating unions involved in wage disputes, have met with the carriers three times since the board's report and talks were unproductive. The board's report automatically banned a strike for 30 days under terms of the Railway Labor Act but the unions are free to call a strike any time after Thursday.

Light rain fell over much of Pennsylvania. A ban on smoking in woodlands, lighting of campfires and burning of brush remained in effect. Officials said 251 forest fires broke out last week and more than 50 are still burning.

The situation remained grim in New Jersey, where Gov. Richard J. Hughes asked mayors in four large northern counties to take immediate steps to conserve water. Monday's rainfall measured only .04 inch.

Scattered showers in New York State did little to settle the dust of a six-month drought.

A light rain Monday night made West Virginia forests slightly less prone to fire, but 95 fires were reported in wooded areas.

Thirty North Carolina counties have canceled burning permits.

Lone Gunman Gets $22,000

OAK PARK (AP) — A lone gunman passing as a policeman held up the Oak Park branch of the American Savings and Loan Association Monday, escaping with a reported $22,000.

The robber, described as a muscular, six-foot man wearing "bubble-type" eye glasses, forced employees to dump bills into a cloth bag after he herded them into a vault at gunpoint, police said.

The FBI said the man was reported to have fled in a two-door, black car.

The holdup took place moments after the bank had closed for business at 5 p.m.

Police said the robber called the manager, Gerald L'Heureux to the door on the pretext of inquiring about a parked car and then forced his way inside.

L'Heureux said he and three employees were forced into the vault and ordered to put bills into a draw-string bag while the robber held it open.

No one was injured.

Police said the robber wore a left-shoulder patch on his supposed uniform bearing the name "Oak Park Police" but that a check at headquarters showed no such patch to be missing.

Mild Winter? Better Get Set For The Worst

WASHINGTON (AP) — A close study of many factors, including the jet stream, a polar bear's fur, the stockpiling activities of squirrels, and the laws of chance, points today to an inescapable conclusion: The coming winter may be abnormally mild, but prepare for the worst.

The U.S. Weather Bureau flatly refuses to say what the winter will bring. Weather science is not yet that good, it says. The most it will hazard is a 30-day outlook, issued twice a month.

Winds Tell Story

Now if the bureau could know now what the jet stream will be doing next January it might become bolder. James F. O'Connor, bureau meteorologist, made a valiant effort to explain the jet stream in words understandable to an amateur.

It is the core or nucleus of a broad band of westerly winds which sweep across the Pacific and the United States, west to east. They fly high, at an altitude ranging from 10,000 to maybe 40,000 feet.

Trouble is, you cannot count on them to fly straight, they meander, they snake around in their journey.

If they snake northward in the winter, over the Yukon for example, much of the United States can look for earmuff weather. If they meander southward, the storms imbedded in them, or swept along by them, they may pick up a lot of water vapor over the Gulf of Mexico. This could mean umbrella weather later for many Americans.

Next stop was the National Zoo where Snow Star, a polar bear, proved equivocal. It's true she has a remarkably thin coat for a polar bear, but her keeper, Albert C. Smith, had a theory about that: "I think she keeps rubbing her hair off by scraping against the sides of her pool."

The laws of chance are not much help. If you toss a penny, and three heads — bad winters — come up in a row, you might expect that a tail — mild winter — would appear next. But it's a 50-50 chance that it might be another head.

One thing scientists are generally adamant about. The explosion of an atomic device by the Red Chinese did not produce our long, golden Indian summer weather this year.

Man-made blasts, even nuclear ones, are puny compared to nature's strength.

Kiwanians See Football Movie

Football coaches from Holy Name High School and Escanaba Area High School were guests of the Escanaba Kiwanis Club Monday to join the club in viewing a motion picture showing college All-America stars of 1963 in action.

Robert Nystrom, coach at Holy Name, was accompanied by the star quarterback of his 1964 team, Frank Trotter, and Coach Jerry Cvangros of the Eskymos had Jim Clairmont, his star fullback. Both coaches reported that they would lose manpower heavily at graduation time. Nystrom expects eight lettermen to return in 1965 and Cvangros has a hold-over of nine lettermen.

The program Monday was arranged by Jack Beck.

Chips And Splinters

Robert Cromie in his Chicago Tribune book review column says some good things about Gal Talese's "The Bridge," (Harper & Row, $5.95) which is about the new Verrazano Narrows Bridge in New York. The book is about the men who built the bridge more than about the structure, the "boomers" who make their living in this dangerous trade including the Mohawks who barrel home to Upper New York weekends in their Cadillacs and then back again for work Monday.

The book doesn't confine itself to the Verrazano Narrows bridge but tells of the building of the nation's other great bridges. "In St. Ignace, Mich., for instance a boomers' crap game was raided by the state police, who ignored the other players (including a fellow trooper) and arrested only the heavy winner after confiscating his profit. He was unable to pay the $100 fine and went to jail, where he promptly organized a poker game, won enough to pay the fine and was back on the job in the morning."

The boomers are devil-may-care all right, but the tale of the state police at the Straits is stretching it.

CLEANUP WORK is progressing in the Menominee State Forest in Menominee and Delta counties after the July 2 tornado which destroyed or damaged hundreds of acres of timber. This scene of wind damage in old growth hemlock is typical of the damage caused by the storm, which was local in character and which struck about 7 p. m. along the Big Cedar River. These hemlocks are several feet in diameter. Many large pines were wind thrown in the storm and salvage of such timber will start with freeze-up. (Daily Press Photo)

Democrats May Rush Program For Legislature

in Lansing Dec. 4. "The final decision on this would have to come from legislators, since only Democratic legislators can be responsible for the Democratic legislative program."

Major Items Listed

The Legislative "platform" would "deal with all areas in which legislation is needed," he said, "but it would do it in broad, general terms. The specifics must be dealt with in the bills that are introduced."

Traxler, a second-term legislator who has been mentioned as a possible assistant majority floor leader, lists the following major problem areas to be dealt with in the next session of the legislature:

—Education, dealing mostly with improved financing at all levels and expansion to take care of the rapidly increasing population at the upper levels;

—Conservation, both to preserve and improve the state's sports facilities and its tourism potential;

—Property tax relief for the aged, a question that raised controversy when introduced during a special session of the legislature last year.

A decision must be made within the next few years, he added, over the state's future tax plans.

The prediction of the similarity in their legislative programs which also has been made by other Democrats, follows a listing of similar major legislative areas by Romney.

Penninsula Set For Bonanza Skiing Season

"Come north, come all the way north" is the invitation being extended to skiers throughout the Midwest by the Upper Michigan Tourist Association.

On the eve of the opening of the 1964-65 winter recreation season, ski resort centers are better prepared than ever to handle the tens of thousands of persons who annually visit Michigan's Upper Peninsula to enjoy the skiing, tobogganing and other snow sports facilities that abound in this North Country.

Another major ski area has been added in construction of Powderhorn Mountain's Bavarian style chalet and development of a nine-trail layout in Gogebic County, while the Mission Hill resort near Brimley in Chippewa County, opened last winter, again will be in operation. The Powderhorn Mountain area is north of U.S. 2 between Ironwood and Bessemer.

Major Resorts

Expanded facilities and improved accommodations are found at most of the other commercial winter sports centers, including Pine Mountain at Iron Mountain-Kingsford, Indianhead Mountain east of Ironwood, Brule Mountain south southwest of Iron River, Cliffs Ridge at Marquette and Porcupine Mountain west of Ontonagon.

An abundance of snow assures ideal skiing conditions through the December-March sports season, but — just in case — several of the Upper Peninsula ski resorts have added snow-making and snow-grooming machines to their equipment. All are fitted with such conveniences as tow, T-B, chair or double-chair lifts, and one — Indianhead Mountain — has installed a triple-chair lift, one of only three in Michigan.

Because of its terrain, Upper Michigan is able to offer more of a variety of downhill ski runs than most other regions in the Midwest; trails for beginners, intermediate skiers and experts are available at nearly every area — some up to a mile in length.

Additional winter sports facilities, including skating rinks, are found throughout the Peninsula, many operated by communities for the enjoyment of local residents, but where visitors are welcome. Included are Mt. Zion, Ironwood; Mt. Joy, Wakefield; Crystella, Crystal Falls; Al Quaal, Ishpeming; Gladstone Ski Park; Thunder Bowl, northwest of Manistique; Danforth Hill, Escanaba; Big Valley, south of Newberry, and Brice's Hill, west of St. Ignace. Accommodations at such places generally include tents and shelter houses.

Night skiing is popular at Mont Ripley at Houghton-Hancock, operated by Michigan Tech, and at several other winter sports centers.

Visitors to Upper Michigan are welcome at the United States Ski Hall of Fame and Museum in Ishpeming, where national trophies, medals, equipment and mementoes of the sport are on exhibit. Ishpeming's Suicide Hill and Iron Mountain's Pine Mountain also will be the sites of big-time ski tournaments in the winter. A winter sports guide can be obtained by writing to the Upper Michigan Tourist Association at Marquette.

The silk of a spider is very thin. It averages less than 1/10,000 of an inch in diameter, and has been known to measure as little as one millionth of an inch.

City Employee To Be Honored By Council Thursday

The Escanaba City Council will at its meeting on Thursday evening present a watch to one of its retiring employees, William Thompson, who began work with the city in 1947. He has been approved for disability retirement, said City Manager George Harvey.

The Council will open bids to supply the city with yellow pine poles; and will give second reading, public hearing and adoption to two ordinances to vacate streets to provide area for commercial development.

The proposal is to vacate 7th Ave. N. east of N. 16th St.; and to vacate N. 18th St. and N. 19th St. between 7th Ave. N. and the E&LS Railway.

The Council will hear a request to break the curb on N. 20th St., between Ludington and the alley to permit access for trucks.

Hannahville Will Try To Obtain Economic Aid

Initial steps to obtain Federal assistance to combat poverty in the Hannahville Indian Community near Wilson under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 were taken at meeting at Bark River-Harris high school Monday.

Four committees — designed to compile data and formulate positive action programs for the community — were set up.

In addition, a resolution asking the Public Health Service to finance construction of water and sewer lines to the community was approved by tribal vote.

The meeting, called to order by Hannahville tribal chairman Joseph Sagataw, was directed by Lawrence J. Kozlowski, assistant superintendent from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Ashland, Wis., and Raymond de Kay, area social worker for the Bureau from Minneapolis.

Hannahville, a scattered community of about 28 Indian families in the Wilson area, does not have any electric power, running water or indoor toilet facilities. Most of its adult population has little education.

The Economic Opportunity Act, passed last August, has a federal appropriation of $800 million for assisting poverty-ridden communities help themselves.

Assuming maximum speed in local committee action and in federal processing, aid could begin coming to Hannahville under the Community Action section of the act next summer, a Bureau spokesman said.

He added, however, that because of the newness of the program all administrative details have yet to be worked out by the newly created Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 establishes a broad program of federal aid to economically depressed communities, including Job Corps camps (similar to the old CCC camps), programs of education, work training, and grants to "public or non-profit corporations or combinations of such for urban and rural community action programs."

Community Action committees established Monday were:

Data Committee (to compile information and statistics on the economics and living conditions in the area): Paul Nickell, Rte. 2, Bark River; Mrs. Opal Peppatt, Bark River; Mrs. Catherine Ahlin, Bark River; Mrs. Rene Hansen, Bark River; Lester Walcutt, Rte. 1, Daggett; Mrs. Charlotte Megenuph, Wilson; Mrs. Lena Philemon, Wilson.

Projects and Budget (to present description and estimate costs of any program planned): Wyand Nieuwenkamp, Rapid River; Amos Michigaud, Wilson; Henry Philemon, Wilson; Mrs. Lillian Strom, 1523 Montana Ave., Gladstone; Mrs. Myrtle Erickson, Bay View Location, Gladstone; Miss Ingrid Tervonen, Delta County Home Extension Agent, Escanaba; Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, 1815 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba.

Community Participation and Evaluation (to mobilize and assess resources of community): Joseph Sagataw, Rte. 1, Wilson; Rev. Benjamin Helmer, 220 S. 4th St., Escanaba; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph J. Dunleavy, Bark River; Elgot Erickson, Harris; Pete Michigaud, Rte. 1, Wilson.

Two members of each committee will be appointed to serve on a compilation committee to collect information gathered and put into a report to be sent to the Office of Economic Opportunity in application for a federal grant.

AIRMAN David C. Ingebrigtsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Ingebrigtsen of Gladstone, Rte. 1, has completed the first phase of his Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He was selected for technical training as a supply specialist at the Air Training Command (ATC) school at Amarillo AFB, Tex. The airman is a 1964 graduate of Gladstone High School.

The case was assigned to Judge James Thorburn for trial but no date was set.

Home Care Is Studied By Local Health Dept.

Mrs. Margaret Callies, staff nurse of the Delta-Menominee District Health Department, Menominee office, attended a training program in coordinated home care at the University of Michigan School of Public Health, Ann Arbor, to learn basic principles of coordinated home care.

The Visiting Nurse Association staff presented the organization, development and operation of the Detroit program. Field trips were taken to community-based coordinated home care programs. Mrs. Callies visited the Howell community program and made visits with a public health nurse. This program is sponsored and managed by the Howell Community Hospital.

Coordinated home care programs offered services to patients at home who are under care of private physicians. The program offers physicians a total community service for their patients, including the services of physiotherapists, nutritionists, occupational therapists, social workers, psychologists, and nurses. Through referral to this program patients can receive a variety of services given by the agency.

Coordinated home care programs are in operation throughout Michigan. They are operated by hospitals, Visiting Nurse Associations, and Health Departments. The Delta-Menominee District Health Department does not have a coordinated program, but offers nursing services to patients under the direction of their family doctors. This service can be obtained by contacting your doctor or the Health Department.

Johnsons Look Back 30 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I hope this marriage lasts," the minister said 30 years ago when the bridegroom, Lyndon Baines Johnson, was in such a hurry he forgot to buy a ring.

They'll probably laugh about it again tonight at a family dinner party in the White House celebrating the wedding anniversary.

Lady Bird Johnson still keeps as a memento the Sears, Roebuck ring hastily purchased because young Johnson goofed on the day of their wedding in old St. Mark's Episcopal Church in San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 17, 1934. The Rev. Arthur K. McKinstry officiated.

Their 30-year marriage milestone comes exactly two weeks after the election in which the Johnsons were assured another four-year lease on the White House.

They got the election returns in the Driskill Hotel in Austin, Tex., a spot of fond memories. It was there Lyndon and Lady Bird had their first date — breakfast in the hotel's coffee shop.

It was all a far cry from the day they were married, Lyndon, 26, and Claudia Alta (Lady Bird) Taylor, 21. Johnson then was secretary to Texas Rep. Richard Kleberg.

Short Work Week Rated No Panacea

Shortening the work week is not seen as a panacea for the problem of unemployment by the nation's independent business proprietors. Returns of a year-long field survey conducted by the National Federation of Independent Business which asked attitudes toward enacting a law for a 35 hour work week. Should businessmen oppose this measure strongly advanced by labor organizations, by a majority of 76 per cent out of 55,964 respondents to date, with 10 per cent in favor, and 14 per cent undecided.

The latest vote does not reflect as great an opposition as registered in January when the entire membership, voting on a bill proposed by Rep. James O'Hara of Michigan to impose heavy penalties for overtime worked over 40 hours per week was opposed by 88 per cent, or the 89 per cent opposition registered in April against the bill introduced by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell to reduce the work week.

Paying For Health

There is a serious break in the chain of health services which the nation is forging from research and for which the people of Michigan should supply a link.

In the Upper Peninsula there is a special problem of four counties without public health departments—Marquette, Mackinac, Luce and Gogebic—and the Michigan State Health Department is asking authority to serve them as well as to bolster its services to the counties with public health departments.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis, state health commissioner, says that the huge and increasing expenditures on research to improve health shouldn't be interpreted by the public as an automatic means of betterment.

Since World War II the United States has increased its spending for medical research from $88 million to $1.6 billion and Michigan has contributed its large proportionate share to this effort. Of the total, 62 per cent now is federal tax funds, chiefly administered through the National Institutes of Health, which currently finance some 15,000 separate research projects.

This tax-paid research doesn't produce new knowledge for health care that flows automatically to the public. It can be said that an early detection tool in mental illness is of value beyond calculation—like a cancer cure—but practically Dr. Heustis asks if Michigan can afford the benefits of all this new medical research.

He indicates his strong personal belief that we can afford use of the new knowledge, but it then becomes a big IF whether the public wants to pay for it.

The people of Michigan, he says, have been able to afford the luxury of more than a third million of pleasure boats, but the total per person spending for public health has decreased from $1.78 in 1954-55 to $1.30 in 1963-64.

How is Michigan putting the new health knowledge to work? The answer, suggests Dr. Heustis, is saddening and humiliating. Research is finding means to prevent mental retardation and sickly babies, to cure venereal disease, to prevent heart damage, but we're not putting it to work in a big way in public health services. He proposes adding $825,000 to the budget of the State Department of Health for this purpose.

The State Council of Health has informed Governor Romney that in Michigan today, the services that provide for the local community's health just cannot be made available through current resources. Local treasuries are chronically flat and local departments of health are unable to do the work piled on them by growing local demand and by state laws.

The plight of the local health department in rural areas is well known, it can't pay enough to keep adequately staffed, but the metropolitan area health departments are in no better relative financial position. Sixty-eight of the 83 counties in Michigan get the basic grant of $5,000 a year from the State Department of Health because they meet its minimum standards of public health services, but Keweenaw County with 2,500 population gets $5,000 and so does Wayne with more than a million.

To get realistic and truly helpful the State Health Department wants the Legislature to give it 5 cents per person served by three big city health departments (Detroit, Saginaw, Jackson) not now receiving state assistance, and 10 cents per person for the 12 counties not now participating in a local health department (including the 4 in the U.P.) so minimum public health services can be provided.

The Legislature will want to have a hard look at this request in the larger context of all health services, public and private, in making a decision, but Dr. Heustis is correct in telling the people of Michigan that they'd better organize a system to translate medical research into health services and finance it adequately.

The Doctor Says:

Emotional Symptoms Puzzling

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

A young woman tells me that when she complains to her friends about her symptoms they tell her to "forget it."

She has tried but the symptoms remain. She wants to know how to forget what is in fact upmost in her mind.

This leads me to a consideration of two kinds of symptoms: Those caused by a chemical or structural (organic) changes in the body, and those for which no organic change is found.

In the second case, we usually say the symptoms are functional or neurotic. This does not make them any the less real and the cause must still be sought.

In some instances there is an organic cause that eludes even a painstaking search. More often, however, a very complex reaction to emotional conflicts is the underlying cause. When this is the case, every effort should be made to resolve the conflict.

I should mention in passing that after neurotic symptoms have existed for a long time they may cause organic changes, and when organic changes are the first on the scene they often cause anxiety that complicates the picture.

This is the true meaning of the term "psychosomatic," which has gained such wide usage. Such symptoms contain an element of both of the types described.

Although it is useless to tell the victim of a set of neurotic symptoms to forget them, it is often helpful to reassure the sufferer that there is no serious organic disease present and to remind him that every one of us is continually beset by problems. While we cannot always forget them, we can frequently rise above them by losing ourselves in our work and by concerning ourselves with service for others.

The creed of the professional actor, who is just as likely to be neurotic as the next one, is of special pertinence here. The slogan, "The show must go on," has enabled many a fine actor to portray gaiety in the face of physical pain or mental anguish. We can't all be professionals, but I believe there is enough of the ham in most of us to turn in a fine performance of submerging our woes.

I believe, too, that my young lady correspondent should never have mentioned her symptoms to her friends. Regard "How are you?" as a greeting. Reply: "Fine — and you?" Hope your friend will also regard this as a greeting, nothing more.

The only exception is when your doctor asks, "How are you?" Then and then only you should unburden your soul. Hold nothing back.

I'm sure that whatever he finds, he will not say, "Forget it."

Man With Severed Jugular Beats Odds And Lives

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A doctor gave Ghenet Brewer less than a 50-50 chance to live when he was brought into a hospital with his jugular vein, windpipe and neck arteries severed.

Brewer, 34, beat the odds, partly through first-aid measures applied by policeman Paul Perdue and an off-duty fireman, N. A. Henderson.

The paving contractor, who went home Sunday, was injured Oct. 30 when his pickup truck hit a tree and overturned. Brewer's head and neck went through the windshield.

Perdue, on duty a block away, rushed to Brewer's aid and applied pressure to the neck wound. Henderson saw the accident from his home and ran to help.

In a three-hour operation at the hospital, it took 50 clamps to stop the flow of blood. Surgeons placed 250 stitches around Brewer's neck.

"To Unity in the Brotherly Family of Communist Countries!"

Washington Comment

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

A few days ago a major official of the U.S. government, in a secret informal discussion with other civilian and military officials, outlined a possible U.S. program for carrying the war into North Viet Nam.

He listed several score prime targets, including airfields, supply areas, marshaling yards, ports.

He suggested that if the United States carried out this program, the Red Chinese might take action.

He noted that if the Red Chinese did take action, the United States would be in a position to bomb military points on the China mainland with conventional bombs.

He thought that first among U.S. bombing objectives might be Red China's new nuclear plants in the northwest.

This official did not openly advocate such a plan. He said it might be considered. But he did say that failure to take similar action in the Korean war had cost many U.S., Allied and South Korean lives.

He argued that we could have won the war in Korea early and quickly, discouraging further Communist adventures, had we bombed the Red Chinese sources of supply in Manchuria quickly after Mao Tse-tung's armed intervention.

The American mentioned above is not the only high official in Washington deeply concerned over Communist China's nuclear explosion.

The worried officials are not impressed by knowledge that the bomb was low-powered and crude. They are not comforted by reports that it will be many years before the Red Chinese have a major capacity to deliver nuclear bombs to U.S. cities.

If the Red Chinese get away with producing nuclear weapons without being blocked, these officials ask what will prevent India, Japan, Middle Eastern and Latin-American countries from producing bombs, too?

Then, they ask, how do you prevent one contestant in a dispute between two of these countries from setting off a bomb and perhaps igniting world-wide nuclear war?

Therefore, officials in the State and Defense Departments and in other government agencies concerned with national defense are quietly debating in closed sessions on ways to stop the Red Chinese from producing bombs.

Plans for bombing the Communist Chinese atomic plants with "iron" (non-nuclear) bombs have not been accepted. But they haven't been ruled out.

Some officials have argued for seeking Soviet co-operation in destroying the Chinese nuclear plants. Others have ruled out this idea as ridiculous.

Some have asked how we could justify knocking out Red China's plants so long as De Gaulle continues to work on a French nuclear force which would use numbers of U.S.-furnished aircraft.

Some of these U.S. government officials wish wistfully that the United States had taken out Russia's nuclear plants when we had the atom bomb and they didn't.

Michigan Man Heads Advisers

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Gardner Ackley, new chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, "is a natural" for the job, his former mentor and colleague says.

"He is both a former student and colleague of mine and I know him as an intellectually disciplined economist, thorough in his research and not given to heroics in economic proposals," said William Haber, dean of the University of Michigan College of Literature, Science and the Arts.

Ackley was appointed to the post Saturday by President Johnson. He succeeds Walter W. Heller who resigned to return to his professorship at the University of Minnesota.

Ackley, on leave from the U-M Economics Department, has been a council member since August, 1962. To fill the vacancy on the three-man council, Johnson appointed Arthur M. Okun, 35, a council staff member who did much of the analysis leading to the 1962 administration decision to recommend a tax cut.

Haber said Ackley "has had solid experience in government administration, in important positions requiring fiscal responsibility."

"He has the highest respect of his economic philosophy and theory," Haber points out, "he is at the same time conservative and there is little danger that his advice will contain fiscal hazards."

Haber said: "Like most modern economists in economic philosophy, Gardner Ackley sees the role of government as positive and affirmative rather than negative."

"Consequently, in his advisory role as chairman of the council of economic advisers, the objectives of economic growth and high levels of employment are likely to receive the vigorous support which they have had from Walter Heller."

Born in Indianapolis in 1915, the 49-year-old Ackley received his bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and his masters and doctorate from U-M. He joined the U-M faculty in 1946 and in 1956-57 spent two years in Italy as a Fulbright scholar studying the postwar Italian economy.

He was considered a "brilliant student" by Haber while in graduate school, is affable in nature and possesses a "keen sense of humor."

Theater Where Lincoln Was Shot To Be Restored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old Ford's Theater building is to be closed on Nov. 30 so that work may start on restoring the interior to its appearance the night of April 14, 1865, when President Abraham Lincoln was assassinated.

Work will take about two years, said Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. Congress has voted $2,730,600 for the restoration.

The building now houses the Lincoln Museum and has little to indicate that it was once a theater. During restoration the museum items will be placed in storage but later will be on display in the theater basement.

He had just read the Escanaba Press piece on "Anatomy Of A Fisherman."

"Our paper (in the Lower Peninsula) wouldn't mention a book!" And he had chuckled at some sally in it,—or had it been in general pleasure with the piece?

My gratefulness was mixed. The piece omits where the book can be obtained, an in-hering service to the paper's readers, the book and to the U.P. The writer thus keeps his obvious pleasure for himself. "Anatomy Of A Fisherman" is distributed by the local Borealis Books. It is displayed in stores in the rack, U.P. Entertainment & Information In Print along with (mentioned also) "Trout Madness", "North To Adventure", (and many others).

Ann Landers

Cats And Birds Cause Clashes

Dear Ann Landers: Why do bird lovers take such a holier-than-thou attitude? I've never yet met a feather fancier who didn't feel sanctified. Cat-lovers, on the other hand, are always on the defensive.

It is a fact that cats seldom catch healthy, alert birds—only the sick or injured. Cats DO catch healthy and alert mice, however, and it's fortunate for humanity that they do.

It is contrary to the nature of a cat to be confined or put in harness. I would make every effort to co-operate with my neighbors in regard to my cat if they in turn would promise to keep the birds off my lawn and prevent them from chirping at sunrise.

Even though I find bird lovers a bore I don't believe (as some Orientals do) that people who hate cats were actually rats in their previous life.—GREEN EYES

Dear Eyes: Right now I'm so busy answering letters from bird lovers and cat haters, I think in some previous life I must have been a centipede.

Here is another point of view which will close the subject, to the satisfaction of one and all. I hope.

Dear Ann Landers: I dearly love cats and birds—and people. In their own place they are wonderful. Only when they get out of their place do they become a nuisance.

Most cats will not harm birds if they are well fed. Cat owners should realize that cats need variety in their diet.

My five cats run free. My two pet birds fly around the house and love it. The yard is filled with wild birds that use our bird baths, bird houses, feeders and shrubs.

We have a mass feeding every morning (on the lawn) for one and all. I have had as many as ten cats, two squirrels and 100 birds—eating together. Some of the bolder birds even go into the cat house and take their place at the dish with the cats.

If a cat must kill birds for food the person who calls the humane society does both the bird and the cat a favor.—MARIE

Dear Marie: Me-ow, tweet-tweet and thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 years old and have two small children. The problem is my 41-year-old mother. She is attrave and lively, and I wish I had her figure.

Dad died two years ago. No one knows better than I how mom put up with his drunkenness and abuse to keep our family together. He treated her like dirt but she never let her bitterness show.

Now that mom is a widow she is trying to make up for lost time. She has been involved in one sordid affair after another. At the moment a 28-year-old fellow is sharing her apartment.

My husband says I can't take our children over to her place and he is ready to tell her she is not welcome in our home. I love mom and she is crazy about the children. Is it fair of my husband to ask me to break off with her? I need your help.—THE SWIMMING HEAD

Dear Head: It's awfully hard to raise a 41-year-old mother so give up.

Your husband is right—about one thing. The setup over there is nothing for children to see. I do not feel that your mother should be barred from your home, however. Keep the latch string out and your personal opinions to yourself. It's sad that your mother is throwing her life away but you cannot save her. She must save herself.

Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-Age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed and stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Burglars Steal $24,000 Savings Of Peanut Man

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mohamed Ben Ali had hoped to retire this year after 40 years of selling hot chestnuts, peanuts and popcorn from his pushcart.

Saturday night burglars stole what he called his life savings of $24,000. The money included $10,000 in coins, stuffed into peanut bags and hidden in shopping bags.

"I saved and saved and saved—all for a burglar," said the 68-year-old vendor. "I'm just a man without a life. I feel like the blood has run out of me."

Ben Ali, who lives alone, has been a widower nearly 20 years. He left his native Morocco as a teen-ager.

After losing money in the 1929 stock market crash he began to store his cash in paper bags.

Buchman Death Hasn't Destroyed MRA Movement

MACKINAC ISLAND—Moral Re-Armament, which cast all its hundreds of Mackinac Islander votes for Ely Peterson for U.S. Senator in by-passing fellow Mackinac Islander Senator Philip Hart on Nov. 3, is just as active as it was before the death of founder Frank Buchman.

He died three years ago and any early fears that MRA might go the way of its founder is past. It feels as assured as ever, reports Time magazine, that it will conquer the world with its four absolutes: honesty, purity, unselfishness and love.

MRA dramatizes its doctrines chiefly by stage and screen rather than in the pulpit and its latest message play, "Through the Garden Wall," has been touring Germany drawing enthusiasm from audiences and shudders from drama critics, according to Time.

"Thousands still flock each summer to MRA's grand rallies at its lavish headquarters at Caux, Switzerland, and Mackinac Island, Michigan; in 1962 MRA opened a third and equally handsome center at Odawara, Japan.

"Although MRA officials are vague about money and membership figures, Britain's Peter Howard, Buchman's designated successor as the movement's leader, insists: 'We are getting more contributions than we did 10 years ago, and many more people are working for MRA.'"

Howard is very unlike the late Dr. Buchman, who was a "mild-mannered rural pastor and YMCA worker" until he founded the Oxford Group, MRA's predecessor.

Howard, still trim, lean and handsome at 56, was one of Oxford University's athletic greats (rugby) and in 1941 was assigned, as one of the late Lord Beaverbrook's most acid commentators, to write some articles about MRA. He ended by joining it. Owner-operator of a model farm, Howard turned out 16 plays and his more than a million dollars in royalties from his writings have gone to the cause.

Howard insisted that the movement adheres to Buchman's main strategy of converting the world's leaders to living by the four absolutes, but the movement no longer tries the easily disproved claims of a decade ago that unionist converts had brought labor peace to strike harrassed cities. And MRA today doesn't stress statements from African leaders that it has saved the continent.

Welcoming men of all faiths, it claims that it is not a rival to existing churches, but many Catholic bishops have warned their people against joining and some Protestant leaders have attacked its ideology as unbiblical, despite its insistence on the need for high standards of personal conduct. Good members of MRA don't smoke or drink and are urged to sexual restraint even in marriage.

"MRA," says Time "obviously is not the world's only spiritual movement that praises purity and honesty. But some Christians seem to find in it a spiritual solace and discipline unavailable elsewhere."

Buck Drops Dead On Front Yard At Hialeah, Fla.

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) — The E.L. Westbrook family had venison Monday—delivered to their door.

The 125-pound buck with five-inch antler points apparently wandered miles from its Everglades habitat after it was wounded. Carolyn, 10, and Alan Hasker, 6, found the deer lying on their lawn Sunday. It was dead. Mrs. Charles Hasker said she didn't want it.

"I've never had deer," she said. "I wouldn't know what to do with it."

Police Called the Westbrook garage to make the pickup. Mrs. Westbrook knew what to do. In quick order, the deer was skinned, dressed and iced.

"We're cooking a piece of hindquarters now," she said.

Mrs. Westbrook's husband and three sons weren't home to enjoy the meat.

They were in the Everglades—hunting deer.

MORE THAN 6,000 turkeys are frozen daily by a trio of Zeeland food processors from July through December. More than 250,000 "gobblers" are raised by one Zeeland grower alone each year.

Turkeys Make Myriad Products

ZEELAND — Michigan turkey processors are working overtime this fall to assure the consumer of a tasty "gobbler" for her Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners.

An example of the activity surrounding the preparation of turkeys for the holiday dinner table is evident from a visit to a trio of processing plants operating at Zeeland on Lower Michigan's western border. These plants freeze a total of more than 6,000 turkeys each day during the July to December processing season, according to Carl Hoyt, district marketing agent at Zeeland for the Cooperative Extension Service.

Although the processing season is rather short, turkey is now a year around product. It's no longer thought of just as a Thanksgiving or Christmas delicacy.

Michigan residents consume nearly 2.8 million turkeys each year, nearly one-half grown outside the state. The state's 1963 turkey production — centered mainly around Zeeland which is often referred to as "the turkey capital of Michigan" — brought growers a gross income of over $5 million last year.

One of the Zeeland turkey processors, Dewitt Industries, uses special trucks to transport birds from the farm to the processing plant. The six story trucks each hold 960 "tom" turkeys or 1,440 "hens" and are loaded in one and one-half hours by six workers. It takes three truckloads daily to keep the plant operating at top speed.

The Zeeland plant is also the only processing operation in the United States using a continuous rocker chiller in turkey processing. Turkeys are chilled for 90 minutes in two tanks maintained at temperatures of 50 degrees and 32 degrees F. Birds are then packed for brine freezing.

The firm raised and processed 170,000 turkeys this year for sale mainly in the Grand Rapids, Detroit, Lansing, Saginaw and Flint areas.

A lengthy list of more than 25 turkey products in addition to whole birds are processed by Bil-Mar Farms, operated by William and Marvin DeWitt at Zeeland. They annually raise 250,000 turkeys.

Although they freeze whole turkeys only from July to December, the "further" processing plant operates 12 months of the year turning out a wide variety of turkey products such as drumsticks, wings, necks, roasted and fresh turkey rolls, turkey chips and boneless turkey roasts.

Turkey rolls are simply boneless turkey tied into a roll with the bones removed by a special process. The meat is flavored and roasted in giant ovens. The rolls help the consumer save storage and cooking time while eliminating waste and leftovers. They can also be sliced and served cold or heated if desired.

The Upper Peninsula has been told time and again that it needs more package offers for recreation; that is the way the big volume visitation is built.

North Central Airlines have an attractive new brochure out offering three days of ski holiday complete with meals and all accommodations at Pine Mountain ski resort, Iron Mountain for $40. If you live in Chicago add $50 for round trip air fare. The rate is double occupancy, so if you're single add $5 for the trip, or $7.50 to the $80 rate for 5 days. You can just take your body if you like as ski equipment can be rented.

Upper Michigan Tourist Association is urging Upper Peninsula ice fishing centers to develop their rental facilities to provide this sport for visitors. With its development will come package tours, no doubt. Bring only your own over shoes and 6-pack holder.

One of the Upper Peninsula's fine sports which hasn't been sold much yet to the big city Saturday-in-the-snow set is snowshoeing. It lacks the schuss and excitement of downhill skiing, but it brings an unparalleled opportunity for seeing wild game and winter wonderland in the forest. It doesn't risk the fractures that skiing does and for shutterbugs it is the greatest.

Relocated M-35 Job Finished In Marquette County

LANSING (AP)—An 8.8-mile stretch of relocated M 82 will open to traffic today in Oceana County and 5.3 miles of relocated M 35 in Marquette County will open Wednesday, the State Highway Department says.

The department said MacClean Construction Co. of Lansing completed work about eight months ahead of schedule on the $736,208 M 82 project, which will eliminate a number of sharp turns.

The Marquette County project, costing $1,093,588, is part of a relocation project to help it possible to resume extensive iron ore mining in the area.

FALL COLORS INDOORS

Rivalling the blazing hues of autumn, mums will last indoors for weeks if treated well. Kept out of direct sunlight except in the early morning and afternoon, mums also prefer an evenly moist soil. This is best maintained by keeping the plants in clay pots which will leach out excess water through the sides.

Peninsula Potpourri

SAULT STE MARIE — The Chippewa County Welfare Department is flat broke and if immediate assistance is not forthcoming the department will be forced to close its doors Dec. 1, the Board of Supervisors' Health and Welfare Committee was told last week. Welfare Director Margery Dryer said the department has $37,947 in accounts payable and is six months behind on some bills. A minimum of $8,700 is necessary immediately, she said.

MARQUETTE — A new traffic control program designed to handle increased traffic and reduce accidents includes making portions of Front St., Third St., Magnetic St., and College Ave., one-way thoroughfares in downtown Marquette.

MENOMINEE — Atty. John D. Payant of Iron Mountain has been appointed by Circuit Court here as counsel for Terrence Donovan in his appeal of a second degree murder conviction. Donovan, currently in the prison hospital for the criminally insane at Ionia, was granted a review of his conviction in the slaying of Mrs. Robert Degnan, the former Mary Jane Heiden of Escanaba. Donovan had pleaded guilty to the charge.

MARQUETTE — Appointment of members of a special tribunal to hear the case for proposed canonization of the late Bishop Frederick Baraga has been announced by the Catholic Diocese of Marquette. The tribunal will be canonically established and will begin its deliberations on the return of Bishop Thomas L. Noa from Rome, where he is attending the Vatican Council.

IRON MOUNTAIN — Sale of one-fourth interest in the Pinecrest Medicare Facility to Iron County by its three other owners — Menominee, Delta and Dickinson Counties — moved closer after the Dickinson County supervisor's voted approval. Iron County's share has been set at $78,471. Neither Delta or Menominee County have taken action.

ISHPEMING — The Santa Express, a 90-minute train trip sponsored by the retail division of the Greater Ishpeming Chamber of Commerce, will be repeated this year on Dec. 5. Rides on a special Chicago & North Western train will leave Ishpeming at 9 a. m., 11 a. m., 1 p. m. and 3 p. m. Santa Claus and two of his "elves" will ride the train to talk to children.

Michigan Gets Salmon Eggs

LANSING (AP) — The State Conservation Department will start earlier than it had expected in introducing Kokanee Salmon to Michigan waters for sport fishing, with some 200,000 fertilized eggs due to arrive about Nov. 30.

Dr. Howard Tanner, chief of the department's fish section, had announced plans to obtain up to 2.5 million Kokanee eggs from Colorado in late December or early January.

Those plans remain unchanged, he said. The 200,000 eggs due Nov. 30 are an addition to the program, said Tanner.

The eggs, sold to the state for $730 by a commercial dealer at Soap Lake, Wash., will be taken to the State Fish Hatchery at Oden, near Petoskey, for hatching and rearing to fry size for planting next spring.

Pistol Accident Makes Sore Head

PRICHARD, Ala. (AP) — Rookie policeman J. E. Jordan probably will be getting some instruction soon from fellow officer Danny Goldman on how to handle a pistol.

Jordan bent over to pick up a book Monday shortly after reporting for duty at the city jail. When he stooped, his pistol fell from his holster. He picked up the gun and it discharged.

Goldman suffered the only injury — a sore head. The bullet shattered an overhead light which fell on Goldman.

Lutheran Welfare Meeting Topic At Immanuel Church

The work of Lutheran Welfare Services of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan and its fund drive for a new headquarters is to be the subject of Orville M. Jensen's "temple" talk at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Escanaba, on Sunday, Nov. 22.

Jensen, State Road, Escanaba, a layman, will tell of the agency's work among emotionally disturbed children, unwed mothers, families and the sick and the needy and how the work of Lutheran Welfare has tripled in the past 13 years.

This has meant an increase in the agency's staff and the over-crowding of the existing headquarters, forcing personnel to use attic cubicles, a former kitchen and basement for their work. The cramped building has also handicapped the agency's work.

To overcome this and similar problems, Jensen will point out, Lutheran Welfare has undertaken a building fund campaign for a new, efficient headquarters and a service building. The goal of this drive is $600,000.

Power Struggle Not Settled Yet In The Kremlin

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The new changes at the top of the post-Khrushchev Soviet regime suggest a power struggle between liberalizers and conservatives over the course of the Soviet economy. Clash and compromise seem to have played a part.

Younger - generation technocrats are making their influence strongly felt. There are signs that the younger men eventually will emerge with the lion's share of political authority, but the struggle is not over.

The younger men seem impatient to remove some of the restraints on Soviet economic development, even to the point of experimenting with capitalist methods.

Farm Expert Dropped
This could lead one day to an upsurge in East-West trade, more economic independence for Red-ruled Eastern Europe and aggravation of the dispute with the Communist Chinese.

The Communist party Central Committee made these appointments Monday: Alexander N. Shelepin, 46, and Pyotr Y. Shelest, 56, to full membership in the party's ruling Presidium, and Pyotr N. Demichev, 46, to alternate Presidium membership.

The committee dropped Vasily I. Polyakov, 58, a Khrushchev farm expert, from the secretariat.

iat, and dismissed ailing Frol R. Kozlov from the Presidium, thus eliminating one conservative voice from the top of the apparatus.

Shelepin's rise was predictable. As former chairman of the State Security Committee (KGB) and chairman of the party and State Control Committee, Shelepin probably played a significant role in unseating Nikita Khrushchev as premier and first secretary of the party.

Shelepin, a deputy premier, now may be moving close to the top rung of party leadership, possibly eventually as deputy to First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Shelepin's rise and the advancement of Demichev to alternate Presidium membership can encourage new generation leaders anxious to build the consumer economy despite resistance from hard-line conservatives and the military.

Demichev is closely associated with the chemical industry, a hope of the younger men for sharply stepped up consumer production.

These appointments seem to enhance the positions of younger-generation leaders, like Presidium member Dmitry Polyanskiy, 47, an able administrator with wide experience. Polyanskiy and Shelepin now are men to watch.

Andrew Dahl Dies Today, 87

Mr. Dahl, a farmer and railroad worker, retired 15 years ago.

The body will be brought to the Boyle Funeral Home, Bark River, which announced that funeral arrangements still were incomplete.

Disclosure Act On Solons Urged

LANSING — Secretary of State James M. Hare, who has proposed that top state officials and members of the legislature disclose all their financial holdings, has urged that a law similar to that enacted in New York last year be used as a pattern for Michigan to follow.

"I think that a declaration of income and sources of income as well as holdings by Michigan officials might prevent a possible future major scandal from hitting Michigan as it has in other states and on the national scene," Hare said.

The New York law makes it a misdemeanor for members of its legislature to accept gifts valued at more than $25 if the purpose could be inferred as to influence legislation, Hare said.

Trans-Canada's Gas Line Plan For U.P. Out

The complication posed by application of Trans-Canada Pipe Line Co. for permission to build a natural gas line across the Upper Peninsula has been removed, at least for the present.

The application complicated the request of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. and Wisconsin Michigan Pipe Line Co. of Detroit, and of Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha to serve the Upper Peninsula with natural gas. The Federal Power Commission has set Jan. 26 for hearing of these pipe line companies' applications in Washington.

Mich Con has proposed to serve only the southern part of the U. P. from Iron River to Rapid River from the end of the Mich-Wis pipe line at Menominee, while Northern Natural proposes to build a pipe line east from Duluth to serve all the U. P. to Escanaba-Gladstone, including the area sought by Mich Con.

Trans-Canada has asked the FPC for permission to build a natural gas pipe line from Emerson, Manitoba to Sarnia, Ontario. It would pass through the Upper Peninsula of Michigan and Trans-Canada in its application had asked permission to serve the U. P. and other areas with natural gas.

The Federal Power Commission on Nov. 12 published a letter in the Public Record at Washington rejecting the application as deficient. The action is not determinatory, but leaves no application before the FPC for its consideration. To that extent it is favorable toward the applications of Northern Natural and Mich Con, which will not — unless Trans-Canada makes a new and acceptable application — face a competitive challenge before the FPC which will delay its action while determining the merits of the Trans-Canada project.

FPC's letter to Bradford Ross, of Great Lakes Gas Transmission Co., Trans-Canada's United States subsidiary, said that Great Lakes' Nov. 5 application was found in preliminary review by FPC to be deficient in several ways. It was conflicting, FPC said in not setting forth clearly its request for authorization for gas sales in the United States, in not supplying exhibits to support the application, and in not furnishing data on its sources of gas supply, other than that they would be through Trans-Canada.

we were fishing out of Cedar River we could average 550 pounds of trout on 1,000 hooks."

Now even the water levels are at the lowest he has ever seen. Off Misery Bay the shoals and islands are joined into a long barrier reef on which brush and trees are beginning to grow. "We used to sail over that with our centerboard down," he said. "It's terrible."

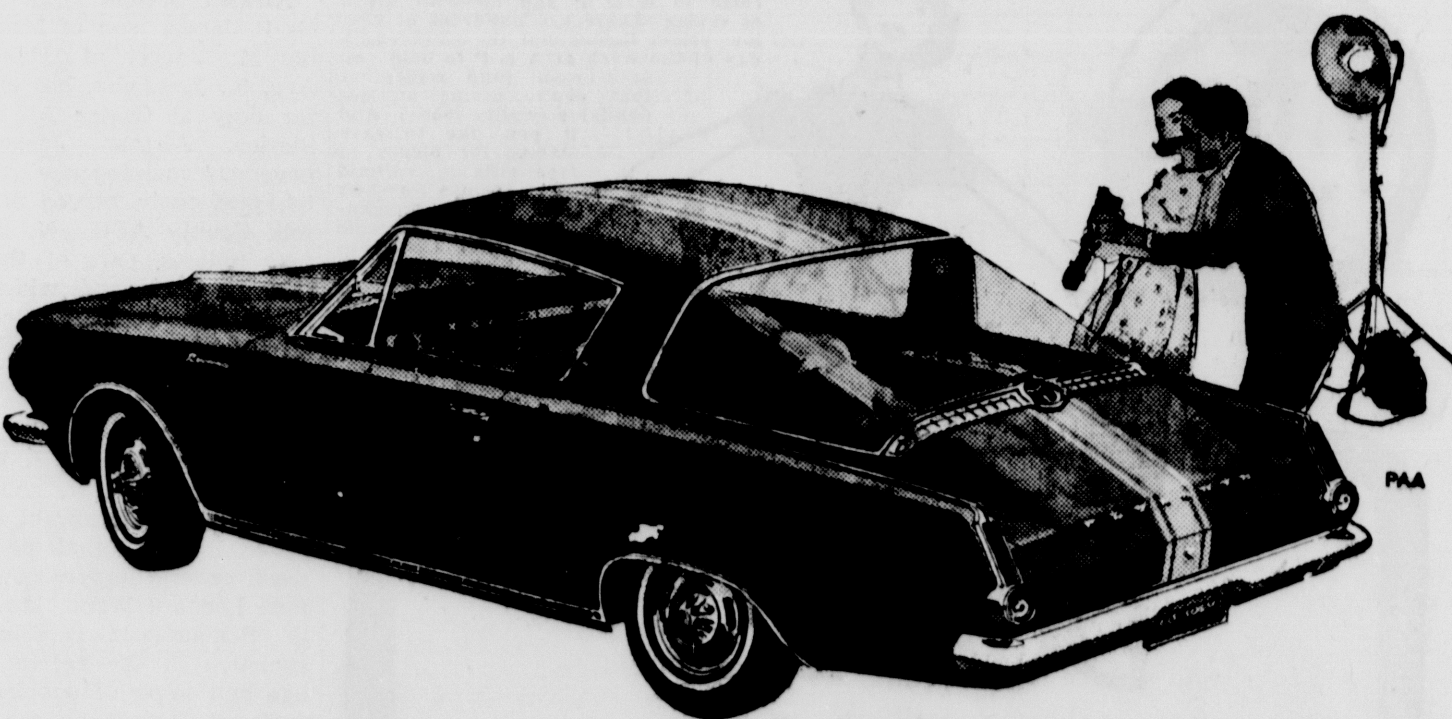

Charley expects the water to decline further, but he does not place the blame on water diversion at Chicago. "They have deepened the channels in the Detroit River and that's draining Lake Huron and Lake Michigan faster." There used to be water on the Six Foot Shoal off Cedar River. It's dry now. Things are going to get worse before they get better, he believes.

Trans-Canada pipes gas from Alberta to Quebec in one of the world's longest gas pipe lines north of Lake Superior. It asked FPC for permission to come down through the Masabi Range in Minnesota and across Wisconsin and Upper Michigan and Lower Michigan to Sarnia to provide a shorter route. It also proposed to serve the customers enroute, listing the communities and mine industries in the U. P. which Mich Con and Northern Natural propose to serve.

The FPC letter rejecting Trans-Canada's application on preliminary review was signed by Joseph H. Gutridge, secretary of the commission.

Cream Marinade

CREAM BAKED tarragon chicken with tomatoes and peas

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The use of a marinade to step up flavor and tenderize meats and poultry is very popular. The marinade usually combines oil and wine, lemon juice or vinegar. A traditional marinade for chicken in the Midwest is seasoned sour cream to give distinctive flavor.

Plastic bags, particularly the new heavier weight bags, can eliminate repeated turning of poultry pieces or meat cubes in the marinating process. Seal the pieces of meat or poultry together with the marinade in the plastic bags and place in a bowl in the refrigerator. During the marinating time, it is necessary only to turn the bag over to insure even distribution of the sauce. When ready to cook, remove the chicken from the marinade and discard the plastic bag.

For Cream Baked Tarragon Chicken (3 to 6 servings): 2 cups sour cream, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons dried tarragon, 1 tablespoon onion salt, 2 teaspoons paprika, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons salt, 6 chicken breasts, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted.

Combine sour cream, lemon juice, tarragon, onion salt, paprika, salt and pepper in a large heavy weight plastic bag. Place chicken breasts in bag, seal, and refrigerate overnight to marinate. Remove chicken; roll in crumbs and arrange in single layer in baking dish. Spoon half of butter or margarine over chicken; bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) uncovered for 45 minutes. Spoon remaining butter or margarine over chicken and continue baking 10 to 15 minutes longer.

Eskymo Cage Squad To Have New Look

The loss of four starters from last year's squad will give Coach Harold Johnson's Escanaba Eskymos a 'new look' on the basketball court this season.

Fans will have an opportunity to see the current edition of the team Friday night when Escanaba invades Holy Name for the 1964-65 season opener.

Back in action from the team that won 11 of 17 starts last year are seven letter winners, all seniors. The veterans are Dave Boileau, Paul Christensen, Jim Clairmont, Jerry Hanson, Paul Meunier, Carl Olson and Dick Sivertsen.

Co-Captains Lost

Other members of the squad are senior Ray Anderson, juniors Harland Fisher, Ed Gauthier, Bob Haack, Rick Kutchner, Jack Long and Steve Oman and sophomores Jim Noyle, Paul Miller and Dave Nyquist. Nyquist, a 6 foot 5 inch, 200 pound sophomore, is a transfer from Port Huron and will not be eligible for competition until the second semester.

Lost through graduation were co-captains Wally Schultz and Bill Eis, Ken Seibert, Glenn Fleetwood and Terry Dufour.

The new look on the Eskymos will be considerably shorter than the old look, as Seibert was a 6 foot 7 inch giant while Schultz, Fleetwood and Dufour all topped the 6-foot mark.

In addition to the graduation loss of five lettermen, the Eskymos will be without the services of Brent Baum, a letter winner last year who has given up basketball this season. Johnson stated that Baum, a slender 6-footer, plans to concentrate on a football future and will discontinue basketball in favor of a weight program this winter.

Aside from Nyquist, the tallest players on the squad are Anderson and Christensen at 6-3. Seven other candidates are 6-footers.

In Ninth Season

Johnson, in his ninth year at Escanaba, is pleased with his team's speed and aggressive attitude. "Lack of a big man and inside height may hurt us in the rebounding department," Johnson states.

In his eight years at the Escanaba post, Johnson's teams have won 112 games while losing 44. The Michigan State graduate also serves as the Escanaba athletic director.

Roels To Have Two Lettermen At Bark River

BARK RIVER - HARRIS- The outlook is rather bleak for Coach Carlton B. Roels who will be closing out a 41 year coaching career this season.

Roels, who has announced his retirement at the close of the current school year, has two regulars among five lettermen back from last year's squad which failed to win a single game.

It marked the first losing season in Roels' career as a basketball coach in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota.

Returning regulars are Dave Bolm and Greg Sagataw. Letter winners include Dave Bruce, Bill Hall and Len Skrobiak.

Other members of the Bron-

Irish Tighten Grip On First

By The Associated Press

Undeclared Notre Dame's impressive 34-7 victory over Michigan enabled the Fighting Irish to increase their lead in The Associated Press college football poll with only two weeks left before the national titleholder is crowned.

The weekend results followed form sheets closely, thus the only changes among the Top Ten involved the bottom three places.

Louisiana State, which beat Mississippi State 14-10, advanced one notch to eighth. Syracuse and Oregon took over the last two spots, replacing Oregon State and Georgia Tech.

Syracuse beat Virginia Tech 20-15 and moved into the No. 9 position. Oregon took over the 10th spot with a 29-21 conquest of Indiana. Oregon State, eighth a week ago, was beaten by Stanford 16-7 and Georgia Tech, 10th last week, dropped a 24-7 verdict to second-ranked Alabama.

Notre Dame, with an 8-0 record, collected 34 first-place votes and 433 points in the balloting by a special panel of 45 experts.

Alabama, 9-0, drew nine first-place votes and 400 points. The Crimson Tide trailed Notre Dame by only 13 points a week ago.

Arkansas held third place with 361 points, followed by Nebraska with 307 and Texas 246. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

The Razorbacks and Cornhuskers, each 9-0, have accepted bids to the Cotton Bowl. Arkansas trounced Southern Methodist 44-0 and Nebraska defeated Oklahoma State 27-14 Saturday. Texas upped its record to 8-1 with a 28-13 triumph over Texas Christian and accepted an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

Only three among the top five teams are scheduled this Saturday. Notre Dame plays Iowa, Arkansas meets Texas Tech and Nebraska closes its season against Oklahoma. Alabama and Texas are idle until Thanksgiving Day when the Tide faces Auburn and the Longhorns meet Texas A&M.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, and points:

1. Notre Dame (34) 433
2. Alabama (9) 400
3. Arkansas (2) 361
4. Nebraska 307
5. Texas 246
6. Michigan 235
7. Ohio State 185
8. Louisiana State 132
9. Syracuse 95
10. Oregon 32

Middleville Top State C-D Team

By The Associated Press

Middleville (9-0) climaxed its season-long climb in the Michigan high school football ratings today by placing first in Class C-D in the final poll conducted by The Associated Press.

Middleville's final standing—a single point ahead of Water-vliet—since Elsie had been the leader among the state's smallest schools for the past two weeks.

There were no surprises in the other two classes. East Lansing (8-0) finished on top in Class A. Albion (8-0) took Class B honors.

The AP's statewide panel of sports writers and sportscasters named Saginaw Arthur Hill, Traverse City and Flint Central as the next three teams in Class A. Detroit Southeastern advanced two places to take the No. 5 spot.

Lincoln Park edged back into the standings as it finished 10th in the final poll of the year, replacing Grand Rapids Ottawa.

Albion, which grabbed the lead in Class B after Kingsford was upset three weeks ago, withstood a strong challenge by Buchanan.

Detroit St. Ambrose, which has a game remaining, placed third, followed by Dundee and St. Johns. Osoda made its first appearance of the year by placing 10th. Fenton dropped out.

The Class C-D race was a three-team affair with Elsie dropping to third place, just nine points behind Watervliet. St. Charles and Homer followed.

Clinton took over the No. 8 spot in C-D, replacing Fowler-ville which heads a long list of also-rans.

In This Corner with Ray Crandall

Freshman Pat Groleau, former Nahma ace, made an auspicious college basketball debut Friday night as Soo Tech defeated Laurentian University of Sudbury, 106-94. The 6 foot 5 inch freshman scored 18 points and was the top rebounder in the game with 13.

The Elsie High School football team (ranked No. 1 in the state Class C-D Associated Press poll, is coached by a former Upper Peninsula athlete. Mark O'Donnell of Norway. Elsie, located 35 miles north of Lansing, has won eight straight this fall. O'Donnell is a former outstanding Norway athlete and was the starting center on the 1938 Viking football team that claimed the Upper Peninsula championship. In 12 years at the downstate school, O'Donnell has compiled a record of 83 victories against 25 defeats and 3 ties.

Another Upper Peninsula basketball coach facing a big rebuilding job this year is Gene Farrell at Ironwood. Farrell has only four lettermen, including one regular, back from the squad that won 13 of 18 starts last season. Returning are Dave Albert, Jack Grandahl, Guy Kangas and Marty Murto who was a starter last year.

At Iron River, Coach Gust Giuliani has eight letter winners, including a trio of two-year veterans, back in the fold this year. Returning are Dick Wales, Bob Gendzwil, Ken Dinco, Dick Demboski, Jim Javoroski, John Kneebone, Bill Angelloff and Dane Dominici. Six of the eight veterans are 6 feet or better.

Several Upper Peninsula high schools are taking steps to include hockey on their athletic programs for next year. Officials from Calumet, Hancock, Houghton and Marquette met recently to outline plans for a league, to begin competition in the 1965-66 season.

The Michigan-Wisconsin Conference this fall for the first time named an offensive and defensive unit on the all-conference selections. Superior East, the conference champion, dominated the squads with five players on the offensive team and three on the defensive unit.

Former Eskymo athlete John Olson contributed two field goals to the Gold team that bowed 66-64 to the Whites in the annual Michigan Tech intra-squad basketball game at Houghton last weekend.

The Green Bay Bobcats opened action in the United States Hockey League with a 4-1 triumph over Waterloo. Hitting goals for Bobcats were George Hill, Stu Anderson, Gordy Yewman and Bob Hamilton.

Three Veterans Force Lord To Rebuild Eagles

STEPHENSON—Coach Guss Lord has only three lettermen returning from the team that won the "comeback of the year" honors in the area last season.

Back in the fold are sharp-shooter Dave Berry, a junior, and seniors Jerry Hittman and Jerry Lutri.

Among the big guns lost from last year's squad were Ron Graves, Clarence Peterson, Ron Sager and Craig Sundquist.

After losing their first four games of the season, the Eagles spread their wings to finish with a 10-10 record, winning eight of their last 11 starts, including their Class B district tournament. They bowed to Ishpeming in the regionals.

Bush was one of the hottest sophomores anywhere in the Upper Peninsula last season, scoring 301 points and earning a berth on the All-U. P. second team. He is a deadly outside shooter, standing 5 feet 9 inches. Lutri is 6-3 and Hittman 6-1.

Lack of experience will force Lord into a big rebuilding job this season but the Eagles boast good height with nine candidates standing 6-feet or taller. Ron Fredrickson, a junior, tops the list at 6-6.

Other members of the squad at present include seniors Dave Westrich, Tom Raboino, Don Freis and Paul Dougovito and juniors Gary Schultz, Bob Melinger, Jerry Rasner, Roger Wood, Earl Phillips, Mickey Raboino, Ervin Kranbert and Wayne Douville.

The Eagles open their schedule with a Great Lakes Conference game against Gladstone Nov. 24 and play a 17-game schedule, as follows:

Spartans Eye Winning Year

EAST LANSING (AP)—With a winning season still possible, Michigan State's football forces are regrouping this week to invade Illinois after suffering a 34-7 trouncing in Notre Dame territory.

For their season finale Saturday, the Spartans will be without the services of halfback Dave McCormick, linebacker Ed Macuga and possibly defensive halfback Don Japiga.

McCormick was to undergo surgery today for pulled ligaments in his knee and Macuga has a similar injury. Japiga sprained an ankle in the Notre Dame game.

This will be MSU's fourth trip to Illinois, where it has yet to win a game. Illinois beat the Spartans in the Big Ten championship game on Thanksgiving Day last year.

MSU Coach Duffy Daugherty lists fullback Jim Brabowski as a serious Illinois threat. In the Illini's 29-0 victory over Wisconsin last Saturday, Grabowski ran 239 yards in 33 carries for a Big Ten record.

Illinois also has All-American linebacker Dick Butkus.

MSU will head into Saturday's clash with a 4-4 record, 3-2 in the Big Ten. Illinois is 5-3 and 3-3 in the league.

Lack Of Height Is Gladstone Problem

GLADSTONE — Coach Bill Wood has a two-word comment on his biggest problem for the coming basketball season: "No height."

The Gladstone mentor this year must find replacements for his front line of Bob Randall, Tom Domes and Tom Watson, all tall veterans who led the Braves to 6 victories against 11 defeats last year. Other lettermen lost through graduation were Dan Schram and Tom Brock.

Wood has six letter winners back in the fold this year. The veterans are seniors Bruce Hawkinson, Bruce Ellison, Ricky Ebbesen, Gary Englund and Mike Gobert and junior Lynn LaPlant.

Ebbesen is the tallest player on the squad at 6 feet 2 inches.

Hawkinson and Budkis are the only other players who reach the 6-foot mark.

Englund, a 5-9 letterman, is the top scorer among the returnees with 156 points to his credit last season. LaPlant, smallest player on the squad at 5-5, pumped in 106 points last year.

The Braves will compete again this year in the Great Lakes Conference, playing 13 league games.

Snell Smashes Own Mile Mark

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Peter Snell of New Zealand, a double gold medalist at the Tokyo Olympics, bettered his own world record in the mile today by three-tenths of a second with a 3:54.1 clocking. Snell set the previous world mark of 3:54.4 on Jan. 27, 1962, at Wanganui, New Zealand.

The 25-year-old Snell, a salesman in Auckland, broke the record at Western Springs Stadium, running on a cinder track.

Scout For Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Detroit Tigers catcher Les Moss was named by the Chicago White Sox as a special assignment scout Monday and George Noga replaced him as manager of the Indianapolis farm club of the Pacific Coast League.

Powers-Spalding Has New Coach, Five Lettermen

POWERS-SPALDING — New coach Tom Lequia, taking over the head basketball reins from Gordy LeDuc this season, has five letter winners back from the squad that won 12 of 20 games last year.

Lequia's Tigers will be blessed with good overall height with four of the veterans 6-feet or better and three juniors going over that mark. The returning lettermen are Mike Nelson (6-2), Bill Behrend (6-1), Steve Pipkorn (5-8), Harry Popelka (6-1) and Herman Klieman (6-0). All but Popelka saw considerable action last year.

Juniors on the squad include Mark Riedy (6-3), Bill Hawry-low (6-3), David Smith (5-10), Richard Piche (6-1) and Bob Dirkmann (5-10).

Lost through graduation were regulars Gary Gagne, Paul Behrend and Dan Wells.

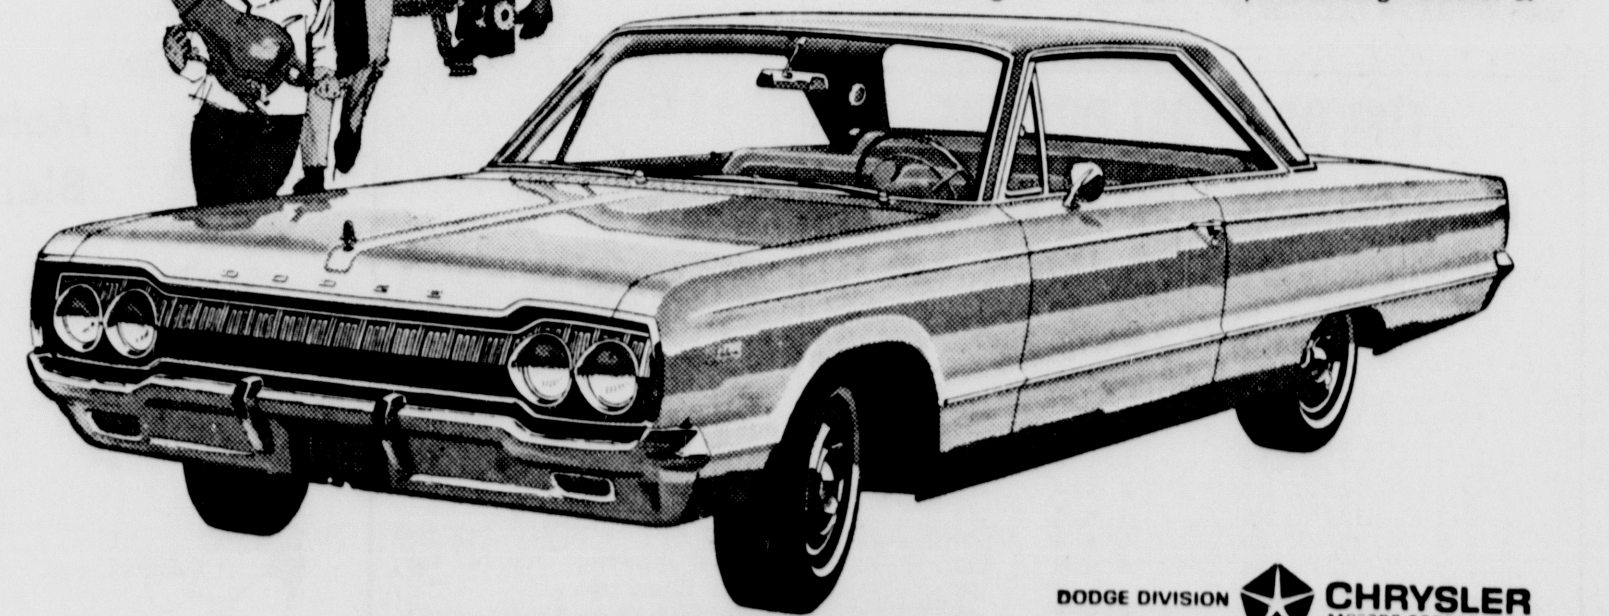

Lequia will be assisted by Maurice Pouppore, former great Powers-Spalding athlete, who will coach the junior varsity.

Jayvee cagers include Tom Pipkorn, Terry Murray, Leon Ekberg, Eugene Polcik, Greg Christinson, Tom Smith, Scott Riedy, Tom Betters, David Pietsch and Marshall Christinson.

Berra Expected To Join Mets With NY Bonus

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra, a two-time loser in October, may have his cake and eat it today.

The deposed New York Yankees manager, with a $25,000 going-away gift from his old bosses in his pocket, was expected to become a member of the New York Mets coaching staff at $40,000 per-year, with the announcement forthcoming at a Shea Stadium news conference.

Berra, who lost his one-year managerial job a day after the Yankees lost the deciding World Series game to St. Louis last month, reportedly will sign a two-year, $80,000 contract as a member of Casey Stengel's strategy board and occasional pinch-hitter.

The $25,000 "bouns," which Berra will get if he steps out of the job the Yankees offered him after his dismissal as field boss, was made public Monday by Yankee General Manager Ralph Houk.

"Dan Topping (Yankee president) and I felt strongly that the club owed Yogi at least that much for his long service," Houk said in Ft. Lauderdale, the Yankees' winter base. "He took a pay cut when he went from player to manager."

"I haven't heard from him yet about wanting to go elsewhere and I hope he decides to stay. But he's free to do what he wants and he still gets the money."

Berra signed a two-year contract as a special field consultant for the American League club, effective Nov. 1, but an escape clause permitted him to accept another post if he desired.

His anticipated signing with the Mets will end an 18-year career in the Yankee organization. Yogi, 39, played for the Yankees from 1946 until he replaced Houk as manager last season. He was the American League's most valuable player 1951, 1954 and 1955.

If Berra becomes a Met, he will be teaming up with former Yankee pilot Stengel, who referred to Yogi as "my assistant manager" when both wore Yankee pin stripes.

No Television For Big Game

ANN ARBOR (AP)—There is virtually no chance that Saturday's Michigan-Ohio State clash for the Big Ten championship will be televised. A University of Michigan athletic department spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman said the NCAA football telecast schedule had been made months ago and it was too late to change it.

Ohio State's Arnie Chonko set a Big Ten record by intercepting three Indiana passes.

E. T. Kings Observe Their 60th Anniversary

The 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. King, which occurred Monday, was observed by the couple Sunday. A family gathering at their home was included.

The couple was married in Liberty, Mo., while Mr. King was traveling for a drug and extract company. He was with the company 40 years, and in 1921 bought a farm, part of the old cattle company ranch, at Cooks, on Old U.S. 2. They stayed on the farm while Mr. King traveled again for several years. In 1937, he was appointed superintendent of Indian Lake State Park.

Later he and his son, Jack, entered the insurance business here. Mr. King retired in 1955 and Jack continued to operate the firm until he sold it to the Denny and Orr agencies and moved to California, where he was in the insurance business until recently. He sold there and now has returned to Manistique, having purchased the Creighton farm north of Manistique.

All of the King children were here for the occasion. They are his son, Jack, and his wife, Dorothy and son, Russ; Mrs. Alice King Edgerton and Mrs. Hazel King Bolitho, both of Wellsley, Mass.; Mrs. E. T. King's brother, Carter Jackson of Detroit, also was here.

Mr. and Mrs. King reside at 621 Manistique Ave., in a house which they built here. The couple left this morning for a trip to Detroit to spend a few days with the Carter Jacksons.

With The Hunters

State Police Sunday were called to assist in locating two hunters who failed to come out by dusk. He had gone in at 4:30 p.m., and State Police were called at 8 p.m. They had just arrived when he came out.

Harry Washell, 55, of River Road, spent the night in the woods along the Manistique River when darkness settled over him before he had time to return. Officers went in with boots along a logging road but encountered water waist-deep in a swamp separating them from the ridge on which Washell was. Three-shot firings were answered. Washell walked out to his home at 9:30 a.m., Monday, in good condition.
